Sitting on a toilet seat is not a known risk factor for coronavirus infection. But, it is important to keep your hands away from your face after touching the seat (no different from before this pandemic). While it is possible to contract COVID-19 by touching a contaminated surface, then touching your mouth, nose, or eyes, this is not the main mode of transmission — close person-to-person exposure is, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Minimizing infection risk in a public bathroom comes down to using the same hygiene measures that should be practiced in any public environment. The three pillars: hand hygiene, physical distancing, and face covering.
